TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Sunday

Fairness is an idea we seem to understand pretty early. Young children are good at “fair.” Actually, more specifically, they are good at “It isn't fair!”

Ever set up a birthday party for little kids? They can tell if someone got more French fries or a bigger piece of cake. Are you decorating the kids’ chairs? They can tell if one balloon is better than another. A red balloon might be better than a blue balloon, so make sure you get the right child the right balloon, so it will be fair. How do you know which balloon is better for each kid? I don’t know. They will, though. Actually, you’d better make it blue balloon, blue balloon, blue balloon—all the way around the table. And don’t make one blue balloon bigger than the others. (Unless it’s the guest of honor’s. But then when the next brother or sister has a birthday, make sure you do it that way again.) Putting jelly beans on the plate? Better count them. The kids will.

Which of us in school or at work has not felt cheated?

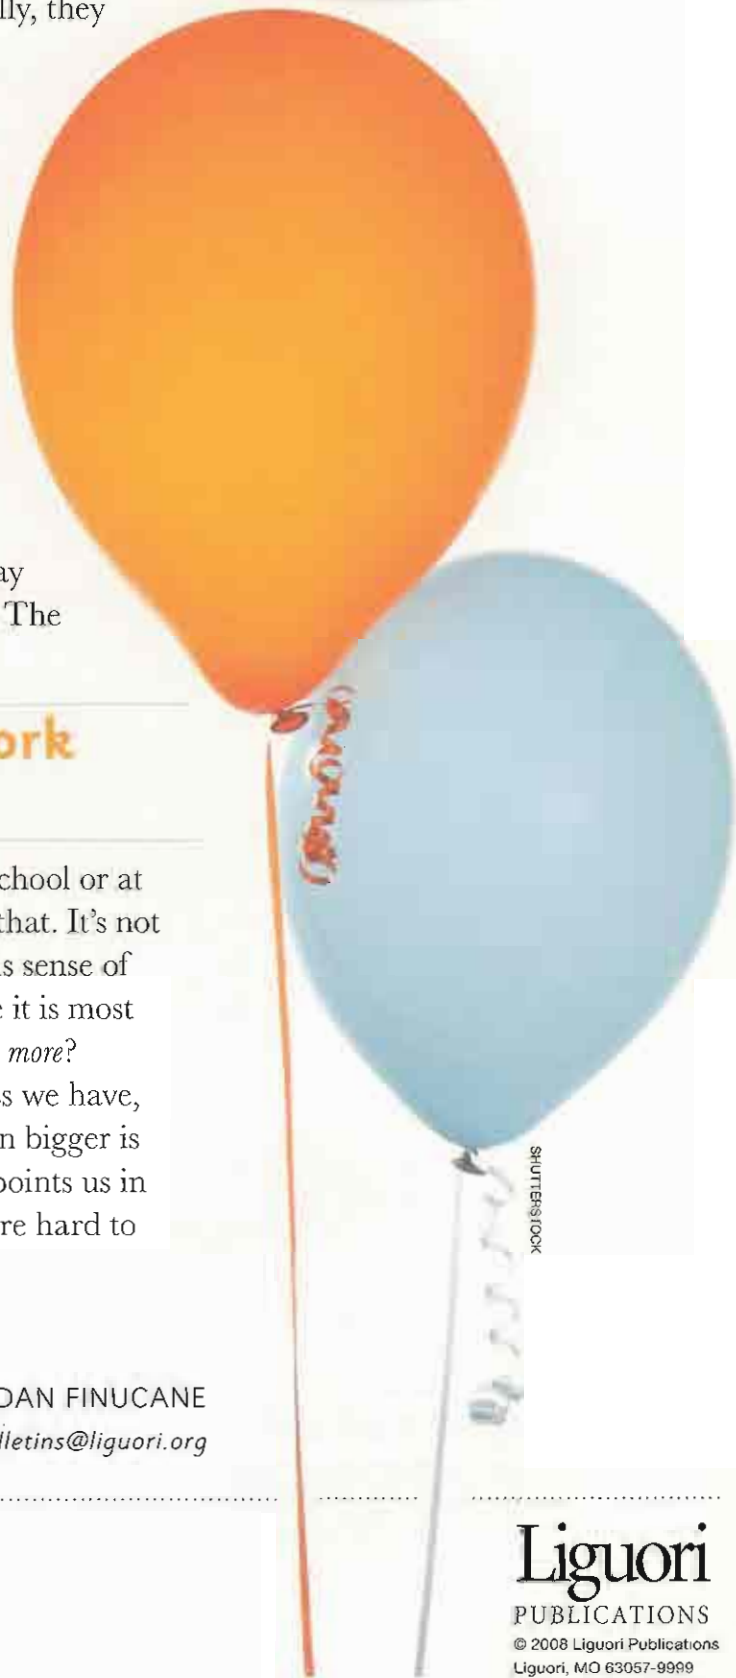

As we grow older, the stakes are higher. Which of us in school or at work has not felt cheated? Actually, there’s more to it than that. It’s not just a feeling. Who hasn't been cheated? It is good to have this sense of justice. It is good to work for justice and to recognize where it is most needed. And yet, the Gospel asks, should we recognize even more?

Today’s passage in Matthew takes up the sense of fairness we have, but it also seems to take it out of our hands. Something even bigger is operating. We are called to be more than fair. Jesus’ story points us in a direction past what is due us. He makes two points that are hard to accept:

1. God’s justice is smarter than our justice.
2. We are offered a second chance. It is never too late.

Changing Our Hearts

"While we have the opportunity,

As we hear from our Lay Presenters this weekend, we are reminded of how personal Sharing in Ministry can be. Your pledge to the appeal truly benefits the ministries and programs throughout North Texas. Next weekend is Commitment Weekend. This will be a chance for you to make a commitment to the 2008-2009 Sharing in Ministry appeal if you have not already done so. Please give generously towards the appeal and know that you can truly make a difference.

El Cambo en Nuestros Corazones

"Por lo tanto, siempre que tengamos la oportunidad, hagamos bien a todos, y en especial a los de la familia de la fe". Gálatas 6:10

Su promesa de donativo al llamado verdaderamente beneficia los ministerios y los programas en todo el norte de Texas. El próximo fin de semana es el Fin de Semana del Compromiso. Esto presentará una oportunidad para que haga un compromiso con el llamado Compartir en Ministerio 2008-2009 si no lo ha hecho ya. Por favor done generosamente al llamado y sepa que puede en verdad crear una diferencia.

St. Stephen Church—Thank you for You for Your Ministry!! What a blessing it was to have your congregation serve at the Center of Hope. So many lives are blessed and enriched daily here at the Center. The love of God is shown through people such as yourselves either through the smiles on your faces, the prayers you offer on behalf of the clients, or the good food you serve to the hungry people that come through our doors. You served approximately 270 hot meals and your congregation gave a total of 90 hours of service. A special thank you to Norma Gonzales for coordinating your efforts at the Center of Hope as you all worked together to do an amazing work!

Dear Padre

Why are there so many new saints?

Q Why has the Church canonized so many people in recent years? I thought becoming a saint was a rarity and that most of us are struggling sinners.

Alice

Dear Alice,

Becoming a saint was especially rare after the 1200s, when formal canonization became more centralized under the pope. So, for instance, during the seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth centuries each pope canonized an average of fewer than ten saints. The number of saints increased significantly in the twentieth century: Pope John Paul II alone canonized 482 people.

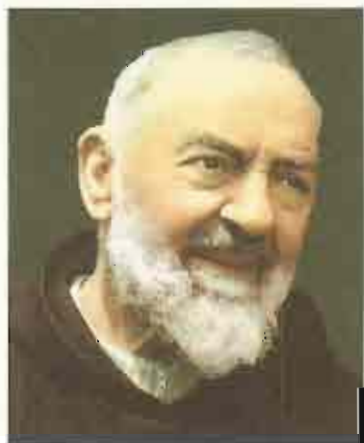

People who "struggle" with their faith are the ones most in need of so many saintly role models. In Making Saints: How the Catholic Church

Determines Who Becomes a Saint, Who Doesn't, and Why, Kenneth L. Woodward wrote, "One might even say that the church exists to make saints of all its members, if by saint we mean those who become true imitators of Christ."

The universal call to imitate Christ comes first with baptism; canonization recognizes that one's baptismal call was carried out to a heroic degree. Holiness, then, is not reserved for a privileged and elite corps, but is intended for everyone. Pope Benedict XVI said recently that recognition given to saints "paves the way to true spiritual resurrection, to lasting conversions and to the blossoming of new saints." In other words, saints encourage more saints among us. Sanctity loves company! "For this is the will of God, your sanctification" (1 Thessalonians 4:3).

Byron Miller, C.Ss.R.

St. Pio of Pietrelcina (Padre Pio) was canonized by Pope John Paul II on June 16, 2002.
